What's different?

- Fully focused on decoding and blending practice
- Straightforward, predictable layout helps children focus on the phonics
- Parent notes and online quizzes focus on phonics
- Allocate as soon as children have been taught the phonemes for that unit to allow them to practise decoding and blending their newly taught phonemes

- Designed to develop fluency and comprehension through books that are matched to their level of phonics
- More creative layouts that mimic library books help children develop understanding of reading order and how to navigate different types of text
- Parent notes and online quizzes focus on comprehension
- Allocate once children are becoming more confident in blending each set of new phonemes to enable them to begin to focus on fluency and comprehension
